Using your SpotClean Proheat portable machine is easy. We'll show you how! First you'll need to fill the clean water tank with water and solution To remove the tank, lift it straight up and pull away from the unit Pull on the black tab to reveal the tank opening. The plug rotates out of the way for easy filling For large messes, follow the fill lines on the clean tank to add the correct amount of hot tap water, portable machine formula, and 1oz of Bissell Boost. The same applies for smaller messes. Just follow up to the appropriate fill line. Replace the plug by rotating into place and pressing gently onto the tank Replace the tank by lining up the tank bottom with the indentations on the machine. Press down firmly on the tank to assure it's in a secure position Next, release the flex hose from the hose grip bracket and unwrap the flex hose completely from around the unit and insert the desired tool for spot cleaning. You should hear a click once it's in place Twist the quick release cord wrap clockwise and unwrap the power cord completely then plug into a grounded outlet Cleaning effectiveness will be enhanced if you pre-treat heavily stained or highly soiled areas To pre-treat hold the desired tool just above the stain and press the trigger to mist the solution over the soiled area. Wait 3-5 min for the solution to go to work before cleaning With the spray trigger released, gently scrub the stain with the brush attachment To lift away the stain, apply downward pressure on the tool and slowly pull it toward you. Continue until no more dirt can be removed As a final step, use drying strokes to remove as much moisture as possible. MORE FROM ASKMONEY.COM Everyone knows it's important to clean kitchens, bathrooms, and dirty floors, but did you know you should be cleaning your wallpaper too? Walls, like any surface, collect dust and grime over time, so it only makes sense that your wallpaper needs to be cleaned as well. Cleaning your wallpaper ensures it stays vibrant and colorful, as dirt won't be able to dull its luster. And cleaning your wallpaper also guarantees a longer lifespan for the wallpaper, as it will be able to stay in better condition longer. Keep reading to find out how often you should be cleaning your wallpaper, what you'll need, the different types of wallpaper, and how to keep it clean for longer. To keep it looking pretty, wallpaper should be cleaned seasonally—three to four times a year. Regular cleaning keeps dust and grime off the wallpaper, and it makes sure that when you do clean it, it will take far less time than if you only cleaned it once a year. However, if you'd rather not clean your wallpaper that often, keep reading to find out how to keep it clean for longer. Either way, before you start cleaning your wallpaper, you'll need to figure out what type you have. We all know that wallpaper comes in all different patterns and sizes, but did you know it comes in different types too? There are three main types of wallpaper that used today, and spoiler alert—only one of them is actually paper. Vinyl wallpaper is one of the most popular wallpapers available. Made of its namesake, vinyl wallpaper is considered durable and easy to clean. It's designed to last 10 to 20 years and it can come in a few different forms too: solid sheet vinyl (great durability), vinyl coated fabric (great texture), and vinyl coated paper (great color). Paper wallpaper is another classic—it's been around for centuries and was first used by the Medieval upper class to cover up stone walls and keep in warmth. It can capture vibrant color like nothing else, though its color can fade over time. However, its delicate nature makes it prone to tears and excess moisture, making this wallpaper is a bit more finicky to care for. Fabric wallpaper can your walls a lush, textured look. It's typically considered the highest quality wallpaper, and for good reason—fabric wallpaper practically screams elegance. It can start getting pretty expensive too, especially if the wallpaper is made up of a high-quality fabric like silk or velvet. But with great beauty also comes careful care, so make sure you know what you're getting into maintenance-wise. For all types of wallpaper: Microfiber clothsDusterVacuum wall brush extension For vinyl wallpaper only: Warm waterClean spongeCastile soapMicrofiber clothsWhite vinegar (optional)Dishwashing soap, gum eraser or white bread (optional)Hot iron (optional) Not all wallpaper can be cleaned the same way, but they all start with the same first step: dusting. Trying to clean a still-dusty wall will only move and smear the dirt around, so you need to dust, no matter how annoying it is. To make things easier on yourself, use a duster with a telescoping handle to reach high spots and tricky corners, or use your vacuum and a wall brush extension. If you use a wall brush extension, ensure that the brush isn't too coarse, as it could scratch your walls. Use a microfiber cloth for small dusty spots on your wallpaper that neither the brush or the duster can reach. If your wallpaper is fabric or paper, this is where your cleaning ends. Cleaning with anything liquid can damage the integrity and color of the wallpaper. Using a bucket or large bowl, mix 1/4 cup of castile soap with a gallon of warm water. Once it's combined, soak a (non-abrasive) sponge in the solution and wring it out until it's damp. Next, take your sponge and gently wipe down the vinyl wallpaper. Don't scrub or squeeze the sponge, but take note of difficult stains. Start at the top of your wall and work your way down, taking care to wipe away any drips as you do. After this is done, let the wallpaper air-dry. If you notice it's taking awhile, or your home is humid, use a microfiber cloth to speed things along. Now it's time to head back to those stain-filled spots you noticed earlier. Use a gum eraser, a piece of white bread or a sponge with a dot of dish soap to gently rub at the stain. This works well for scuffs, grime, and fingerprints. Use a clean, damp sponge to wipe the area clean. To clean up grease stains, mix a 1/2 cup of white vinegar with a cup of warm water. Use a sponge to apply it to the greasy area, then towel-dry. To get rid of crayon stains, use the edge of a dull knife to scrape away any excess crayon wax. Then place a hot iron (with no steam) upon a stack of paper towels upon the crayon stain. The stain should transfer to the paper towel. There's no doubt that wallpaper cleaning can be a tedious task, but you can minimize your work by following these two tips to keep wallpaper clean for longer. Consider where you install wallpaper. If you're thinking about installing wallpaper in your own home, stick to placing it in areas that are free of excess grease and moisture (AKA: not the kitchen). Wallpaper that's free of those contaminants will be far easier to maintain.Treat stains when they occur. If grease does splatter, or your four-year-old decides to make the wallpaper her canvas, treat those stains ASAP. Not only will the stain be easier to remove new rather than old, it will also make regular cleaning less involved.
